

Derivation

Consider a right triangle with legs of length x and y .
The relationship between the sides is well known.

$$x^2 + y^2 = z^2$$

This result is attributed to the Pythagorean theorem and holds for any right triangle in the plane.